

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR ENABLING MULTICAST
GROUP SERVICES IN A NETWORK ENVIRONMENT

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for enabling a service in a network environment is provided that includes establishing a communication link with an end user and evaluating 5 signaling information associated with the communication link to identify a correlation between the end user and a multicast service group associated with the end user. The correlation may be used to provide one or more multicast services to the end user.